

Saturday 9 July

10.00 – 2.30: Radstock Working Men's Club

RADSTOCK WORKS

Passionate about Radstock's future?

How can we guarantee that we get the Radstock we want?

- Come along and take part in a day working on practical plans for the town
- What are the priorities?
Housing? Transport? Heritage? Jobs? Energy?
- Hear how others have made progress
- Speakers, discussions, presentations

This day has been specifically designed to focus on getting people together to discuss and contribute their ideas. To get the ball rolling, we've invited a range of speakers who will introduce some of the possible items and issues, set the scene and perhaps shock or challenge. The debate will go on in discussion groups and exchange of ideas. Radstock needs a plan and this day aims to form a contribution to the basis of such a plan.

In keeping with our non-party political role, we are really pleased that our three elected representatives are all attending (not necessarily for the whole day) and that they represent the three main parties – no bias round here!

We believe there's no better way to plan than by hearing hard facts and figures, the experiences of other community groups and places with similar issues, and those who are already talking about how to get jobs and business growing in the town. But jobs and business do not come without proper housing, transport infrastructure and the creation of a positive environment in which to live and work.

In view of the latest pronouncements on the road, we have reserved the last 30 minutes for a brief update on the situation.

RADSTOCK HAS A VOICE – YOURS
It's time to make that voice heard
